ABOUT ME

I completed 4 years of computer engineering education. During this process, I created projects both individually and with my teammates using the knowledge I learned. I felt more productive in the idea phase, front-end and back-end in the distribution of tasks within the team. For this reason, I want to advance my career in this field.

I realized that the areas where I improved myself the most in software development processes were problem solving and coordination of the transition process from draft to project. At the same time, in the long run, I have set these two features as my goals as the areas where I am most open to improvement.
